II. Extra task for all groups
(this means every group has to prepare for it and be ready to present its findings at session 4 [approx. 5' per group]):

Which changes to the current INSTITUTIONAL set-up of the EU would you introduce? Please make three suggestions related to the INSTITUTIONAL set-up of the EU which you would consider most important or useful and explain briefly why!

Please prepare at least one PPP-slide for this extra task!

III. Exercise: Key statistics (session 2)
- Search for relevant statistics before session 2 needed because in session 2 only 20' preparation time!
- division of tasks ok
- content matters, not the uniform style of presentation - however, one single presentation/2groups required!

Group Presentations
(i.e. main presentations)

- 15 minutes / group at max. (excluding discussion),

- in principle, students decide on form and methods, but PPP very welcome,

- single spokesperson is ok -> presentation is evaluated as a group effort (and is meant to be a true group work = no splitting of tasks) regardless of how many people speak

For ECJ cases:

- presentation of the cases alone (no additional litterature or similar needed, concentrate on the substance of the cases): the „story behind", parties to the case, their arguments, the ECJ's ruling.

- Dassonville, Cassis, Keck: Why are these cases so prominent?

Extra Task
(to be done by ALL groups)

Which changes to the current INSTITUTIONAL set-up of the EU would you introduce? Please make three suggestions related to the INSTITUTIONAL set-up of the EU which you would consider most important or useful and explain briefly why!

- 5 minutes / group,

- ALL presentations in session 4,

- at least one PPP-slide per group,

- presentation is evaluated as a group effort (and is meant to be a true group work = no splitting of tasks),

- it will be decided by drawing lots who will present,

- suggestions are needed as to how the institutional structure of the EU could or should be changed.

Technical Requirements

Please ensure that each group has an appropriate mobile storage medium (stick) available for the duration of the course!

The prepared group presentations should be saved on this stick to enable a friction-free presentation without unnecessary loss of time.

In addition, the stick should also be available for other "spontaneous" exercises in the course.
